SUBJECT : CONDUCT OF BASELINE STUDY SURVEY OF THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE RESTORATIVE JUSTICE (RJ) PROGRAM DESIGN IN SCHOOLS

DATE : June 15, 2023

This has reference to the conduct of survey on the development of the restorative justice (RJ) program design in schools.

The Juvenile Justice Welfare Council (JJWC) leads the development of RJ program design that will produce a technical guide manual integrating RJ principles in all existing and future policies and programs on juvenile justice and welfare system. The manual will be a reference guide for the application of RJ in schools.

In relation thereto, the Department of Education, being a member of the "External Technical Working Group for the Restorative Justice Pilot Program Design and Technical Guide Manual on Integrating RJ Principles in the Existing and Future Policies on Juvenile Justice and Welfare System (Formulation, Pilot Testing, and Onward Institutionalization)", through the Learner Rights and Protection Office (LRPO), contributes in providing technical inputs and evidence-based information in the drafting of the technical guide manual based on the related learner protection guidelines and policies and programs on managing child-at-risk (CAR) and Child in Conflict with the Law (CICL) cases. This includes the identification and coordination with schools that will serve as survey respondents and pilot participants in the conduct of the baseline study.

Thus, we request all Learner Rights and Protection (LRP) Regional Office (RO) focal persons to require the randomly selected public and private elementary and high school teachers to fill out the RJ Baseline Survey form through this link:
